THE ECLIPSE.

Weather Favorable for Observation on the Pacific Coast.

NUMEROUS DRAWINGS AND PHOTOGRAPHS MADE IN CALIFORNIA.

The Exact Results Are Not Known as the Negatives Have Not Been Developed. The Totality Lasted One Minute and Forty-Four Seconds—Mountains on the Moon Plainly Visible.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Jan. 3.—The observation of the eclipse of the sun at Winnemucca was wholly successful. The weather throughout the day was clear. Professor Howe, with five assistants, succeeded in obtaining a number of accurate observations.

MAP PATH OF TOTALITY.

Professor Davidson, under instructions from the Howard observatory, discovered two comets near the sun. A drawing of the telescopic appearance of the corona near the south pole of the sun was obtained by J. A. Brashear, the optician of Allegheny, Pa. A drawing of the corona at the north pole of the sun was made by Mr. Van Harlingen, of the signal office. Notes of the contact were made by several of his assistants. Special series of meteorological observations were also made. No appreciable change in temperature was noted. Photographic negatives have not yet been developed and the results are unknown.

Several accurate observations of the shadow bands were made by Mr. Maratt. The corona was similar in general appearance to that of 1878.

Professor Pickering, of Harvard, and party, secured over fifty photographs of the eclipse at Willow, Cal., where the party was stationed. The professor telegraphs that the sun was perfectly clear during the totality. The party consisted of four observers from Harvard and about thirty local assistants. Fourteen telescopes and cameras, eight spectroscopes, besides miscellaneous apparatus were used.

The first contact was obscured by clouds. The other three were observed at a duration of eleven and eight-tenths seconds. Eight photographs were secured with a thirteen-inch telescope, giving images two inches in diameter before enlargement. Nine were taken with an eight-inch camera. Twenty-five negatives of the brightness of the corona were secured and five to search for inter-Mercurial planets and twenty to study the spectrum of the corona to determine its composition.

During the totality the illumination was found to be lighter than the eclipses of 1878 and 1886. The corona was similar to those of 1868 and 1878, a striking characteristic of the corona was two forked wings of light polar rays well defined.

The Pacific Coast Amateur Photographic association took observations at Cloverdale, and secured a number of negatives. The weather was favorable. The eclipse was first noticeable at 12:23. The totality lasted one minute and forty-four seconds. Just previous to the totality the cirrus clouds were all tinged with the most brilliant colors of the rainbow. Early in the eclipse Venus appeared and Mercury and other planets were plainly in view. Every phase of the eclipse was photographed by some of the party.

A party under Professor Payne from Carleton college, Northfield, Minn., took observations from an open spot on the famous ranch of Gen. John Bidwell. The party used a six-inch photograph telescope and other photograph apparatus and a two-inch zenith telescope. Nine plates were exposed during the period of totality, and six between the first and last contact observations. Sketches of the corona were made by Professor Wilson. The sky was not perfectly clear.

At Anaheim the eclipse was plainly visible. No photographs were taken, but it is claimed an inter-Mercurial planet was seen during the period of the sun's greatest obscuration. Professor Davidson camped near there and made scientific observations. The normal school observing party made observations at San Jose. The corona and prominences were looked for, but were rendered invisible by floating clouds. Venus was plainly seen with the naked eye. Among the incidents of the phenomena observed was the effect of the eclipse upon the images of the sun formed where the light shone through apertures.

Professor Wilbur W. Thoburn, of the University of the Pacific, made some observations, assisted by Professor A. H. Briggs.

During the first quarter of the eclipse the sky was obscured by clouds, but from that on was comparatively clear. At the moment of greatest obscuration the sun was almost hidden, except a very thin crescent on the southern edge. The mountains of the moon were clearly seen outlined against the sun. Venus and Mars in conjunction were easily distinguished with the naked eye.

At the Lick observatory all that is known is contained in the following message from Professor Holden: "The eclipse was successfully observed and photographs taken here. The expedition at Hartlett Springs was perfectly successful."

At Leigan, seventy miles north of Reno, Surveyor General Irish, of Nevada, and his party, in spite of cloudy skies, managed to note the time of the first and second contacts. During the totality, which lasted one minute and forty-four seconds, they secured photographs.

At Professor George Davidson's observatory in San Francisco, under the charge of Professor B. A. Marr, of the United States geodetic survey, the path of the eclipse was closely noted.

As Seen at Washington.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—The eclipse of the sun was observed here yesterday at the National observatory and at Georgetown college. At the latter point Rev. Father Hagen, the distinguished astronomer now in charge of the observatory at Georgetown, D. C., made his observations at sixteen minutes before sunset. Owing to the low altitude of the sun the limb was very unsteady, yet the exceptionally clear horizon allowed the first contact to be observed at four hours, thirty-six minutes and thirty-four seconds standard mean time.

THE STEAMER NATCHEZ.

She Strikes a Reef and Goes to the Bottom of the Mississippi.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 3.—The steamer Natchez, from New Orleans to Lakeport, Ark., struck a reef near Lake Providence Tuesday morning and was badly hurt. She was beached on the opposite (or Mississippi) shore and sank in nine feet of water. There was no loss of life, but the boat and cargo will prove a total loss, as there is no hope of raising her.

The Natchez was the last of seven great boats that bore that name. She was built in 1879 at the marine ways in Cincinnati, and in her construction much of the machinery of the old boat, the one that made the famous race with the Lee in 1872, was used.

The Natchez cost over $200,000, and at the time of the present accident she was valued at $75,000 and insured for $20,000 in foreign companies. The boat was the finest on the southern and western rivers, and was richly furnished. She measured 310 feet, with a beam of forty-eight, a depth of hold of ten, and her capacity as a cotton carrier was 6,100 bales.

The cargo on the Natchez at the time she sank was small, as the boat was going up stream.

AGAIN AT WORK.

Congress Reassembles After an Unusually Short Vacation.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—Congress assembled after a much shorter holiday recess than is usually taken. The attendance is fair and there is no reason why business should not rapidly forward till midnight on the 3d of March, at which hour and time the life of this congress expires by constitutional decree.

There is an abundance of work for congress to do in the two months of life that remain to it, but there seems to be a general feeling that a great deal will not be accomplished.

The house of representatives will spend a great deal of time in idle talk, and there will be little to show for its efforts when the history of the session is written. There is an apparent lack of interest and responsibility about the present house of representatives which indicates an indisposition to serious work on the part of the members.

POINTED PARAGRAPHS.

Topics of the Times Given in a Terse and Spicy Manner.

Gas and oil have been struck at Steuben county, New York.

Hugh J. Grant was installed Tuesday as mayor of New York.

Colored Catholic convention began at Washington Tuesday.

Thieves stole all the mail matter from the office at Jackson, Tenn.

John A. Mackay, the actor, has mysteriously disappeared in New York.

An unknown finely dressed young man suicided near Birmingham, Ala.

Policeman Seal was murdered by a negro in the street at Charlottesville, Va.

Charles Woerd, the watch manufacturer and inventor, died at Waltham, Mass., Tuesday.

The total loss by the Richardson drug warehouse at St. Louis is now estimated at $900,000.

Mayor Roche, of Chicago, has asked the courts for definite instructions as to the extent of his power in dealing with Anarchists.

At the Milwaukee soldiers' home Veterans Schmidt and Ruder quarreled about their war records, and the former fatally stabbed the latter.

Two pupils of the Columbus deaf and dumb asylum were drowned while skating. One of them was Jacob Reiskold, an orphan boy from Cincinnati.

John Matthews, one of the condemned Bald Knobbers rescued from jail at Ozark, Mo., a few nights ago, has been recaptured. Wiley Matthews is still at large.

Andrew Squire, the attorney for the bondsmen of the defaulting treasurer, Thomas Axworthy, returned to Cleveland from London, Tuesday, with $150,000 of the stolen money.

The steamers Sarah and H. C. Warmoth collided on Pearl river, Miss., and the latter sunk. Mrs. Sarah Gabriel, a passenger, was drowned, and Capt. Windom badly scalded by escaping steam.

Haytian News.

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—The Mail and Express in an extra edition prints a dispatch from Port-au-Prince, dated December 31, stating that the Haytian newspapers treat Mr. Thompson, the United States minister to Hayti, in a very violent manner and that several Americans have been placed under arrest. The dispatch also states that the American consulate is filled with refugees. Legitimate is said to have announced that he will, if necessary, shoot foreigners who interfere in the politics of Hayti.

A Deadly Duel.

VICTORIA, Tex., Jan. 3.—Charles LaGarga and Jesus Barbo, two Mexicans who were rivals for the hand of a young lady, fought a duel on horseback Monday near Anauqua. After firing several shots without producing any serious results, both men dismounted and renewed the fight at close range, and continued until both were killed. So close were they that at the close both men lay within six feet of each other.

Hotel Holocaust.

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 3.—At 10 o'clock Tuesday morning a fire broke out in Zeller's hotel, at Sixth and Morgan streets. The building was four stories high, and the flames made rapid headway before the boards could escape. Many jumped from windows and were more or less injured, while two servant girls, whose names are unknown, were burned to death. The hotel was a cheap lodging house.

A YEAR'S RECORD.

A Few Statistics Concerning the Year Just Ended.

LOSSES BY FIRE, DISASTERS, SUICIDES AND HANGINGS.

The Fire Loss Considerably Below the Past Two Years—Nearly Seventy-Five Thousand Lives Have Been Lost By Battle, Pestilence and Disasters—The South Leads in Lynchings.

CINCINNATI, Jan. 3.—During the year just closed the entire fire losses in the United States, adding those under $100,000 in each case, will reach less than $100,000,000, compared with about $130,000,000 in 1887 and $115,000,000 in 1886. The losses are summarized by months; as January $7,310,000; February, $4,490,000; March, $3,796,000; April, $4,360,000; May, $3,130,000; June, $3,025,000; July, $3,965,000; August, $3,675,000; September, $5,387,000; October, $1,330,000; November, $3,810,000; December, $3,301,000, making a total of $47,479,000, as compared with a total of $65,155,000 in 1887, $40,024,000 in 1886 and $32,466,500 in 1885.

There have been 4,015 lives lost upon ocean the and 80 upon the lakes and rivers, making a total of 4,095, as compared with a total of 6,792 in 1887, 2,749 in 1886, and 2,307 in 1885. Fifteen hundred and fifty-four lives have been lost by railroad, 2,861 by disasters in the new world, 49,300 in the old world, and 16,807 by battle and pestilence, making in all 74,697, as compared with 199,164 in 1887, 121,791 in 1886 and 387,463 in 1885.

During the past year 1,487 persons committed suicide. Of this number 1,145 were males and 342 females. As compared with previous years in 1887, 1,387 suicided; in 1886, 914 and in 1885, 978. The cause which led the greatest number to take their lives was despondency, and there were 433 of these; 384 suicided from unknown causes, 198 were insane, 113 had domestic troubles, 103 indulged in liquor to excess and 139 were disappointed in love, 81 suffered, from ill health, which was the cause assigned, and 46 took their lives because they had met with pecuniary losses and been unsuccessful in business. The favorite method of suiciding in 1888 was by shooting—578, or more than a third, shot themselves; 349, or more than a quarter, took poison; 228, or more than a fifth, hanged themselves; 131 drowned themselves; 111 cut their throats, 36 threw themselves in front of locomotives, 25 jumped from windows or housetops, 13 stabbed themselves, 2 blew themselves up with powder, 1 only suicided by strangling, and 1 only by scalding.

There were more legal executions last year than the year before. There were 87, as compared with 79 in 1887; 83 in 1886, and 108 in 1885. New York leads all the states in this regard. There were 9 executions in the Empirestate. Five each in Alabama, Arkansas, California and South Carolina. Mississippi, Missouri and New Jersey had 4 each; Texas, 6; Georgia, Louisiana and Ohio 3 each, and Illinois, Kansas, North Carolina, Tennessee, Idaho, Montana and Indian territory, 2 each; Connecticut, Delaware, Indiana, Iowa, Kentucky, Maryland, Massachusetts, Minnesota, Oregon, Arizona, Washington and Wyoming, only 1 each, and Maine, Rhode Island, New Hampshire, Vermont and Florida, none.

Of the entire number all were males but 1, 57 were whites, 29 negroes and 1 a Chinaman.

Judge Lynch has executed more than Jack Ketch, and the increase was a decided one over last year. There were 144 persons lynched, and of these 101 were in the south, 67 were whites, 74 colored, 3 Indians and 1 woman. Compared with preceding years, in 1887 there were 123 lynchings; in 1886, 133; in 1885, 181. In the various states they were as follows: Alabama, 11; Arkansas, 2; California, 2; Colorado, 3; Florida, 2; Georgia, 13; Illinois, 2; Kansas, 4; Kentucky, 7; Louisiana, 8; Michigan, 1; Mississippi, 11; Missouri, 3; Nevada, 1; Nebraska, 3; North Carolina, 10; Pennsylvania, 1; South Carolina, 2; Tennessee, 7; Texas, 15; Virginia, 4; West Virginia, 1; Wisconsin, 1; Arizona, 6; Dakota, 4; Idaho, 5; Montana, 1; Wyoming, 2; Indian Territory, 6.

BLOODTHIRSTY AVENGERS.

Four Negroes Implicated in the Wahalak "Massacre" Slain.

CHICAGO, Jan. 3.—A special to the News from Shuqualak, Miss., says: Three bands of five men each, headed by William Hare, one of the men slightly wounded in the attempt to kill the negro Maury, Tom McClure and Frank, have never given up the hunt among the mountains for the fugitive negroes concerned in the Wahalak "massacre." They have made their rendezvous at a place called the White House. Last Sunday the vigilantes sent in to Shuqualak for supplies, and it was learned that the man hunters have murdered four negroes—Wide Cheatham, Anthony Wilder, Zack Maury and Stiles Stennis.

Zack Maury was shot while the white men were talking to him at his cotton gin and while he was protesting that he knew nothing of the whereabouts of his brother George. Cheatham was shot in the back yard of his house after he had got down on his knees to the white men and begged for his life.

Anthony Wilder, a Union soldier who was with Grant at Vicksburg, was met by the desperadoes in the road as he was going with a load of cotton seed to Wahalak. The white men shot him and buried his body, as they had the two others, by digging shallow holes and rolling stones upon the dirt after the corpse was covered.

Saturday they caught Stiles Dennis, who had been hiding in an abandoned gin house for nearly two weeks. Stennis tried to defend himself with an ax, and was shot three times before he fell. His daughter, in terror, told the hunters that George Maury had escaped from the country, but that Walter Crook, the other leader of the negroes, had been hid with her father three days before and had left to go to a negro in the country, whose name she did not know, and borrow enough money to take him north.

The merchants of the county have begun to write letters to Sheriff J. R. Key, at DeKalb, intimating that it is time for him to stop the bloody work. All the negroes killed owned little farms worth from $500 to $1,800. All of these farms have been re-located at DeKalb by white men. This circumstance has aroused indignation among conservative members.

M. Rosenbaum, a merchant of DeKalb, who passed through Shuqualak Tuesday on his way to St. Louis, said: "We can see now what all this fuss was about. It was simply a neighborhood row. They wanted these negroes' lands, and they've got it."

DOWN EAST WHITE CAPS.

They Are Pursuing Their Reform Methods in New Jersey.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 3.—The Brotherhood of White Caps is doing its work in New Jersey. The organization has been heard from in several places, the most recent account of its doings coming from Woodbury. A well known man about town in that place, who is somewhat given to practical joking, received warning to change his ways or leave town. He viewed the notice in the light of a joke. Another man who it is said had not done a stroke of work for three years, received notice that he must find work at once "or we'll ride you on a rail out of town." He obtained work by Monday last.

At Bridgeton the mysterious brotherhood is pursuing its work with vigor, and it is in that city that the first punishment is attributed to them. It has come to light that a young woman was attacked on the street early on Sunday morning and severely beaten. She was shockingly bruised about the face, but says she could not recognize her assailant or assailants. Six more letters have been received by citizens.

The brotherhood is at work at Asbury Park also. Several well known persons have received warnings to change their ways of living or suffer the consequences. One man was designated a "drunken loafer under the influence of liquor three-quarters of the time," and was told that unless he freed the town of his presence within three days the writers would "tar and feather him and throw his worthless carcass into the ocean."

After a Prescription Ranch.

MOUNT GILEAD, O., Jan. 3.—Monday morning the first White Cap notice that has come to light in our county was found posted on the door of Jake Weaver's place of business at Edison. Some time ago the Edison village council passed a local option ordinance, and for over a year the village has been free from saloons. Recently Weaver started a "prescription ranch" there, and has been doing a thriving business. The notice orders him to close his ranch and leave the place within ten days, under pain of punishment from the White Caps. It is embellished with rude drawings of skull and cross bones, whips, revolvers, etc. Weaver has cleaned up his rifle and revolver, and announces that if the gang comes they will find him ready for business.

Wanted to Die Unknown.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 3.—A man whose identity it was impossible to discover, committed suicide in a room in the Girard house some time between 10 o'clock on Monday night and 5 o'clock Tuesday afternoon by shooting himself in the mouth. Before killing himself the man destroyed every thing about his person likely to establish his identity.

LATER.—The remains have been identified as those of Manue Kline, of Trenton, N. J. On Friday afternoon Mr. Kline went up to Hunterdon county, where his folks resided, and came back to Trenton during the evening. He remained about town a short time, and then disappeared, and has not since been seen. Mr. Kline has managed the W. S. Sharp Printing company ever since the stock company has controlled it, and is known as one of the best practical printers in the state. He was elected an excise commissioner a year ago by one of the largest majorities ever given a candidate for office in Trenton, and his career on the board has been marked by his fair and impartial treatment of all cases coming before him. He was prominent in several organizations, and has been prominently mentioned in connection with the Republican mayoralty nomination next spring.

An Old Gas Well Works.

SIDNEY, O., Jan. 3.—An abandoned gas well within Sidney corporation celebrated New Year's by unceremoniously blowing off with marvelous vigor, resulting in the discharge of a mass of oil, volumes of water and a shower of pebbles. The well was drilled in 1885. The stockholders agreed to disassemble among themselves, and work ceased. Last June a contract was made to further develop the well which was duly shot when a depth of 1,273 feet was reached. A small flow of gas was the result, but the well was counted worthless and abandoned. It was plugged up, and Tuesday it blew off the top with the result described.

The Ice Gave Way.

IRVINGTON, N. Y., Jan. 3.—Tuesday, while a crowd of seventy-five or more people, mostly boys, were skating on a small pond at Washington park, about two miles back of this place, the ice broke, and fifteen persons fell in. Efforts were at once made to rescue them all, but two boys, Patrick Connor and Herbert Gibbons, aged respectively fourteen and sixteen years, were drowned. Gibbons and Connor were in the center of a group of twenty or more when the ice broke. Their bodies were recovered.

An Unknown Man Burned to Death.

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 3.—The nude body of a man severely burned was found Tuesday morning in a ditch near Fairview, four miles west of Indianapolis. Monday night the man was seen in the woods beside a fire, and it is supposed that while asleep he rolled into the flames. When awakened the man ran down the railroad track for a quarter of a mile. His clothing was burned entirely from his body. He was apparently about sixty years old.

One of the Tollivers Wounded.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Jan. 3.—Cal. Tolliver, a cousin of the notorious Craig Tolliver, is reported fatally wounded at Martinsburg, Ky. He got into a drunken quarrel with a young mountaineer named Frank Atkins, upon whom he drew a knife. Atkins struck Tolliver with a scale weight knocking him senseless. At last reports his condition was considered dangerous.

Maysville's Future.

The year 1889 should mark a new era of prosperity in the history of our city.

The completion of the Maysville and Big Sandy Railroad places us in closer communication with the busy marts of the world, and should infuse new life into our old town. This railroad, part of a great system extending from ocean to ocean, and connecting with other magnificent systems running into all sections of this fair land, gives to us transportation facilities we have never before enjoyed.

And then there is the ever-flowing Ohio, connecting with and forming part of one of the grandest waterways of the world.

All must concede the superior advantages for transportation secured to Maysville by her railroads and her river.

What else have we? One of the richest agricultural regions in the land surrounding us on most every hand—a section that can hardly be surpassed in the production of corn, wheat, tobacco and other staple products of the soil; a section that produces fruits of the finest varieties; a section that is well adapted to the grazing and the raising of all kinds of live stock.

And when all this has been said, the half has not been told. Maysville offers many other advantages that should be considered by those seeking homes and a desirable location for industrial enterprises. A modest rate of taxation, cheap gas, one of the finest water works systems to be found in the land, affording protection against loss by fire that few cities enjoy, an intelligent and industrious community and excellent educational facilities. These we have, together with our transportation facilities and the fertile country surrounding us.

But what availeth all these, if we fold our hands and sit idle all day long, allowing ourselves to drift with the current? That is the question, and there can be but one answer—nothing. Men of Maysville, you have had your hands folded long enough. You have drifted with the current until the breakers are just ahead. It is time for all to arouse themselves and get together and go to work. All are interested in the future of our city, and all should pull together. Industrial enterprises—shoe factories, tobacco factories, canning establishments, &c., &c.—can be made just as profitable here as elsewhere. Why not try? Now is the time. Let the new year mark a new and more prosperous era in the history of our city.

Don't count on outside capital and energy. First show that you have confidence in your town, and the outsiders will soon come in.

The blue bird made his appearance with the new year. This seems to be a regular blue bird winter.

The Winchester Democrat and the Danville Advocate celebrated New Year by donning a neat new dress. The BULLETIN is glad to see two of its most esteemed exchanges prospering so well.

The past year the Baldwin Locomotive Works turned out 736 locomotives, the largest number ever turned out in one year by the company. This is an indication that the year was a prosperous one for the railroads.

In the year 1887 we received from Europe $32,000,000 more gold than we exported. In the year 1888 we exported nearly $31,000,000 more than we received. But we have a good deal of the yellow metal left—Enquirer.

Yes, but it's better to keep all we have and hold on to all we can get.

Come to think of it, there's one feature at least in the figures of the late election that ought to be consoling to the Democrats. "What is it?" Well the figures show that during the past four years the increase in the Republican vote was 586,477 while the Democrats polled 659,382 more votes than in 1884.

"ABERDEEN MARRIAGES."

A Communication From Rev. D. D. Chapin on the Subject.

Editor Bulletin: An article in your paper yesterday, under the caption, "Aberdeen Marriages," from the Covington Commonwealth, that is, that the Legislature of Kentucky has ever passed any law legalizing any such marriages. Such an idea, I know, is prevalent, but an examination of the subject recently by several lawyers of this city has failed to bring to light any such statute. If any such law ever was passed, it, of course, could apply only to previous marriages.

The Supreme Court of the State, however, has, I think, passed upon the subject, and declared that the common law such marriages are "valid." This is a very old, well recognized principle. This principle is very broad, and has grown out of a desire to protect women from being led into traps through fraudulent marriages, and so may be very merciful in its application. It is doubtful, however, if the abuses which have grown out of it are not many fold more injurious than the good accomplished. So broad is the application of the law that if parties declare their intention of marriage before any one, or register at a hotel as man and wife, and cohabit as such, the law will insist that they are married. Chancellor Kent says that such a marriage is ratum sed non legitimum, that is, "allowed to be valid, but not according to law." It is under this head that "Aberdeen marriages" are rendered "valid" in Kentucky. They certainly are not performed according to law, that is the statute law of Ohio, and hence are "allowed" and not "legitimate" marriages. It has been asserted that the statutes of Ohio make a distinction between citizens and non-residents of the State, but this is an error; there is but one marriage law in Ohio, and section 6,392, Revised Statutes, reads, in part, as follows:

If any justice or minister by this chapter authorized to join persons in marriage, shall solemnize the same contrary to the true intent and meaning of this chapter, the person so offending shall, upon conviction thereof, forfeit and pay any sum not exceeding one thousand dollars to and for the use of the county wherein such offense was committed, &c.

Section 6,389 of the same statute requires that "banns" be published on two different days of public worship, at least ten days previous to a marriage, or a "license" obtained from the Probate Judge of the county where the female resides.

Now the peculiarity of these "Aberdeen marriages" is that they are "performed" in direct violation of the Ohio law, without "license" or without "banns," and the Ohio authorities wink at this violation; and this Ohio "Administrator of Justice" is a constant violator of Ohio law, which, every time he "marries" a couple from Kentucky, exposes him (if it could be collected) to a fine of a thousand dollars. And this is the kind of matrimony that two or three hundred Kentucky couples get every year at Aberdeen. I do not know whether the state of things exhibited by these "Aberdeen marriages" is the greater reflection upon the people of Kentucky or upon the law authorities of Ohio. The foregoing touches only the legal aspect of the matter; the social, moral and religious considerations of the subject are vastly more important.

D. D. CHAPIN.

Maysville, Ky., January 2, 1889.

Ringgold's New Officers.

I saw her the first time
 In the year '81.
 I was struck by her style,
 And her mouth full of gum.
 Five years later
 I saw her again.
 With her hair cut,
 She looked just as fair,
 While he, poor man,
 Looked exceedingly grim.
 At his pretty young wife,
 Who was still chewing gum—
 The same chewing gum
 Of the year '81,
 I will swear.

The Inoculation of Cattle.

The experiments made in New South Wales by the agents of M. Pasteur, with the object of combating that malignant malady in cattle and sheep known as the "Cumberland disease," which takes the form of a carbuncle, accompanied with gangrene of the cellular tissue, are reported to be brilliantly successful. It is estimated that the inoculation process now save in New South Wales alone no fewer than 2,000 sheep and 40,000 cattle every year, all of which would have been destroyed if Pasteur had not come to the rescue. The charge for inoculating a sheep is 2d., and for a cow or a steer 4d., which amounts to a considerable tax, but the money is cheerfully paid in view of the great advantage that the sheep and cattle raisers have derived from the introduction of M. Pasteur's method.—Newark Advertiser.

To Keep Away Mosquitoes.

Hadji Hassan Khoul Khan, Persian ambassador at Washington, always sleeps with his hands resting in a pan of cold water. He got into this habit partially because he has been used to a warm climate and could cool his blood in this way, and also because in Teheran mosquitoes are a great pest. Hadji claims that a mosquito will not bite a man who has both hands plunged in water. He asserts that it is heated blood which a mosquito desires, and that a person whose veins have been slightly chilled offers no attractions to the pernicious insect.—Chicago Tribune.

DETECTIVES' WAYS.

ONE OF THEM TELLS HOW THEY SOMETIMES NAB THEIR MAN.

Criminals Picked Out of a Large Crowd by a Subtle Instinct—Men Betrayed by Their Manner of Walking—Peculiarities Common to Professionals.

"What are you doing there?"
 The man to whom it is addressed is a short, thick set man; there is nothing about him to attract attention. He is the most commonplace man I have met for some time. He is simply leaning against a pile of boxes, trunks and the like at a railroad station. Upon the first glance he looks like a sleepy old fellow, who may have drunk more than a flagon of rum, or he may have walked a long distance, and therefore he is fatigued. As any one approached him in the crowd he looked sharply and then seemed to become oblivious.

That man is one of the sharpest detectives in the state of Massachusetts.

"What are you doing there?" is the question again.

Quickly, without moving a muscle, without looking up again, he answers in a low, distinct voice: "Don't speak to me now. I'm watching a man." I moved away.

Presently the crowd grows thicker. The sleepy gentleman by the trunks becomes suddenly aroused. He moves about very rapidly among the people. What will he do? Hardly is there time to walk ten paces when he has disappeared. The train thunders into the station and the people get aboard. The man was nowhere.

CATCHING A BURGLAR.

That night one of the boldest burglars was arrested and lodged in jail. He was arrested on that train and by the sleepy man.

The arrest was accomplished thus: As a rough looking man with a tinpail in his hand walked quickly from the depot to the train the detective followed him closely, and just as he was about to put his foot on the steps he tripped and fell to the platform. In an instant the detective fell on him.

The two men were assisted into the car, and then the detective apologized for having fallen on him. They sat down together in the smoking car, the old fashioned detective took out of his pocket a lot of cakes and apples, and they began to eat and talk about the news.

"That was a bad bit of work those fellows done there in Boston. Did you see the evening papers?"

"What do you mean?" said the man.

"Why, that safe burglary last night."

"Was there a burglary?"

"Yes; didn't you hear of it? Why, they stole over $100,000 worth of cash securities and bonds from the — bank."

"Indeed! Any arrests?"

"Not yet, but the officers are close on the track of the leader of the gang."

"Are they? Do they think they have the right man?"

"Yes, they are watching a man in East Boston by the name of Ridgewood, a noted burglar."

Just at this moment a man arose from the seat behind and walked out of the car. He passed on into the next car.

"That's our man," whispered the detective to his apparently injured companion. The two men arose and passed into the next car after the fellow who had arisen.

They caught up to the man as he was going out of the next car. The train was stopping at a small station. The man got off. He was arrested.

"How did you know that was Ridgewood?" was asked of the detective.

"Because when I mentioned his name he started and left the car. There is something about a criminal that gives him away to a practiced eye. I saw the man on the platform; he was walking up and down. He did not walk more than eight feet before he would turn and walk back again. At this I became aroused and watched him closer."

"It was when I tripped up my friend, that I wanted to avoid suspicion, the burglar was behind us; the man who fell first is one of the best detectives in Boston. He was dressed like a workman and carried a pail. When we fell the man did not notice us, but hurried to the cars; all the other people stopped and looked on."

SIGNIFICANT EIGHT FOOT WALK.

"The man went directly to the smoker and lit a cigar nervously; he drew his hat over his eyes and nestled down in his seat, apparently engrossed in his newspaper. The man read the same paper for a long time; he did not seem to be interested in it at all, although his eyes were intently upon it. They were only on one spot. We sat down in front of him and began to eat apples and talk. When I mentioned the name Ridgewood he started from his reverie. I looked him square in the eye. He got up and left the car. He was our man."

"Oh, about the eight foot walk? Well, you see, an old criminal who has done time will never get out of the habit of walking up and down as he has done so long in his cell. He will only go about eight feet; that is the regulation length of cells. He does this unconsciously, and even though he may guard himself against it, before he knows it he will begin to walk up and down."

"Of course," said the detective, "no man gives himself up to justice—no criminal tells the detective that he is the man. We are compelled to judge from our experience. A criminal has a certain look; a peculiar way of moving secretly, even in the public places—in hotels, at theatres, all over. No one but a skillful man in criminal work can tell the difference, but their actions are readily apparent—they become a larger part of a criminal's nature; he cannot cast off himself."

"Then there are other things certain well known criminals have," he added, "a distinct style of work. The crime is always carefully investigated and the detectives learn the methods of the different men. It is a school. I cannot explain it to you unless you are a close observer of human nature."

"A criminal in walking along the street will unconsciously turn his head and give a quick glance backward almost every so often, generally with every hundred steps. I can tell a man instantly when I enter a crowd. That's why these fellows hide away. They know that if they appear in public they will be recognized."—Boston Record.

BERLIN, Jan. 3.—The public prosecutor Tuesday served upon Professor Giffken an indictment for high treason. It is a voluminous document, indicating a long trial and the calling of numerous witnesses. The trial will probably begin at Leipzig at the end of January. The indictment traces the entire working life of Giffken in trying to prove that he has been a persistent enemy of German unity.

ELEGANTLY ENTERTAINED.

A Brilliant Social Event in Honor of Misses Cluke and Timberlake.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Cox gave an elegant entertainment New Year's night in honor of their guests Miss Cluke, of Mt. Sterling, and Miss Timberlake, of Winchester.

The spacious home was brilliantly illuminated throughout. As the guests arrived they were ushered up to the dressing-room. Upon their reappearance at the drawing room door each was given a dancing programme printed on satin ribbon. The large and elegantly-furnished rooms had been splendidly arranged for dancing the floor being covered with white holland. The Maysville Orchestra furnished music. Those who did not dance found amusement in cards and conversation. About half past ten supper was served. This was an extremely delicious and elaborate repast and a host of waiters saw that the wants of each guest were amply supplied.

The host and hostess, with her sister, Miss Farrow, and their two guests received and welcomed the guests and the evening throughout was governed with such quiet and perfect taste as to insure a pleasant time for all.

The hours were from eight to two, and not until the latter hour and the band had played the last strains of a lovely waltz did the assembly disperse.

It was in every respect a pleasant and elegant entertainment.

The following were present: Miss Timberlake, Miss Cluke, Miss Farrow, Miss Anna Stockton, Miss Beardsley, Misses Mary Richeson, Lizzie Moores, Bessie Johnson, Julia Leach, Anna Frazee, Clara Beardsley, Lida Burgess, Lida Berry, Bettie Welch, Margaret Finch, Anna Burgess, Nannie Burgess, Belle D. Martin, Will Sutherland, Jamie Cochran, Dr. Pickett and John C. Adamson.

Pleasant Social Affair

Miss Lucie Watson entertained a number of her friends last evening at the home of her parents, Colonel and Mrs. John W. Watson, on East Third street. The affair was a very pleasant one. Dancing was indulged in till 12 o'clock, when the guests were invited to partake of a sumptuous repast. The rays of beautiful candlebras lighted the banqueting board. The table graced under a profusion of delicacies, all served in such a manner as to delight the taste of the most fastidious epicure.

The rooms were beautifully decorated with flowers, the mantels and walls being banked with them, while huge exotics screened the musicians from view.

Miss Watson, the lovely young hostess, was elegantly attired in pale blue silk, with diamond ornaments. Among the guests were Miss Margaret Finch, Miss Bettie Welch, Miss Stella Walker, Miss Mattie Evans, Misses Albert, Darnall, Frazee, Coons, Campbell Cox, Berry, Burgess, and Messrs. Leach, Wall, Watson, Will and James Cochran, Nesbitt, Shannon, Geisel, Jenkins, Matthews, Powell, Franklin, Sutherland, Wood, Keith and Herndon.

ELDER JOSEPH C. FRANK, formerly of this city, has gone to Lancaster, Ky., to take charge of the Christian Church of that place. He has been pastor of the church at Flemingsburg thirteen years, and on the occasion of his farewell sermon recently the following resolutions were adopted:

WHEREAS, Elder Joseph C. Frank retires from the pastorate of this church with the present service, an office which he has filled for thirteen years, we, his brethren in the ministry, who have been associated with him the whole or a portion of that time in the work of our common Master, along with the members of this congregation and other churches of this community present, deem it but due to Elder Frank and proper in itself to express in some definite form our appreciation of him as a man, and of his work among us; therefore,

Resolved, I. That we hereby tender to Elder Joseph C. Frank our assurance of fraternal regard and esteem as an earnest, untiring, worker in the department of the Master's vineyard in which he has served.

II. We feel that in common with all the people of this county we owe Brother Frank a debt of lasting gratitude, especially for his fearless, able, persevering and successful advocacy of temperance and of all the other virtues kindred to it and growing out of it.

UNCOMFORTABLE.

Such is the Position of Prominent Italians in Tunis.

FRANCE AND ITALY STRUGGLING FOR PRE-EMINENCE THERE.

The Agriculturists of Italy Loudly Clamoring for the Renewal of the Abrogated Treaty—The German Emperor's New Year's Reception Without Special Interest—Foreign News.

LONDON, Jan. 3.—The truth of the statement in the Riforma that all the Italian employees in Tunis were to be discharged unless they become French or Tunisian subjects is denied by the Debats and the Temps, but it is certain that, owing to French intrigues, Italians of any prominence have had a very uncomfortable time of it for several years in that petty state. The return which the French have received for the trouble and money which Tunis has cost them is purely imaginary as yet, but it appears to gratify their pride to control the country, and they have had the pleasure of thwarting the Italians, whose influence promised to be all-important there a generation ago.

One of the most serious obstacles to the re-establishment of a good understanding between France and Italy, is the struggle for pre-eminence on the southern shore of the Mediterranean, and the alarm of the latter country at French encroachments, is one of the principal causes for the increase of the peninsular navy. How long Italy can maintain her land and sea forces at their present numerical efficiency, is a question for serious consideration. It is a much easier matter to vote additional supplies than to collect the necessary taxes, the payment of which the peasantry evade in every possible way.

The greatly diminished trade with France is a matter of much moment to the agriculturists of Italy who are clamoring for a renewal of the abrogated treaty. The best market for their wine, silk and oil is hampered with restrictions that practically reduce the value of their products, and the peasantry, able to save but little in the most favorable years, are in despair at the prospect before them. The consequence is seen in the enormous emigration of Italians to South America and the United States. The court of King Humbert sent not without a malicious satisfaction the interruption of the advances of Russia to the Vatican. Various contradictory rumors are afloat as to the cause of the suspension of negotiations, but advices from St. Petersburg indicate that the Greek priesthood have protested to the czar as the head of the church against even a partial acknowledgement of the pope's claim to temporal power. M. Iswolsky, the Russian envoy, finds himself in an awkward position, and is obliged to confess that he has no power to conclude the negotiations which he so confidentially begun.

Probably Alexander did not care whether Italy, as a member of the triple alliance, felt offended at his course or not, but he did not feel like encountering the animosity of the clergy, particularly at the present time, when he is credited with the desire to conciliate the hostile portion of his subjects, by making concessions for which they have so long appealed in vain.

William's New Year's Reception.

BERLIN, Jan. 3.—The emperor's remarks during the reception Tuesday were without special interest. He singled out from the personages passing before him Count Herbert Bismarck, Herr von Wedell-Piesdorf, Gen. Count von Schellendorf, Count Szechenyi, the Austrian ambassador, and several others, speaking a few words to each.

The days' ceremonies were ushered in by trumpeters blowing the reveille outside the palace chapel, at 10 o'clock. Divine service was held in the chapel. After the service there was a general reception of court and ministerial officials. The ladies were in half-mourning, wearing high-necked dresses and bonnets, but no jewels.

At the special audience to the foreign ambassador the emperor addressed each representative of the great powers with the same formula, expressing his desire for the continuance of cordial relations. Official communications issued in the evening said that the emperor refrained from special reference to the political situation.

The first snowfall this winter occurred on Sunday. The snow thawed yesterday, but to-day it froze. Last evening roisterers, trying to introduce the new year by old-time indulgences and rowdiness in the streets, were repressed. Special precautions doubtless instigated by the schloss were taken, and police patrols were brought into the thoroughfares to restrain the revelers. The rough frolics customary on Sylvester Abend were not permitted. A number of persons arrested were afterward liberated.

The Pope to the Irish People.

DUBLIN, Jan. 3.—Archbishop Walsh read from the pulpit Tuesday, a message from the pope to the Irish people, in which the pope said: "We have always held in special affection the Catholics of Ireland, who have been long sorely tried by many afflictions. Our affection does not suffer us to allow the cause for which Ireland is struggling, to be weakened by the introduction of anything which could fairly be brought in reproach against it. We send you a number of gifts which are specially blessed."

Foreign Notes.

King Humbert, in addressing deputies who called on him Tuesday, said he believed peace was assured for this year.

Four Radical members of the Serbian chamber of deputies have been arrested on suspicion of conspiring against the government.

It is reported that several railroad officials and nihilists have been arrested on suspicion of having plotted to wreck the czar's train at Borki.

Prince Bismarck's attack of neuralgic gout is abating, but he is unable to fix a date for coming to Berlin. He will certainly not be able either to be present at the opening of the landtag or to participate in the colonial debates in the reichstag. Minister von Baetischer went to Friedrichsruhe on Sunday to receive instructions regarding business in the landtag and the speech from the throne.

Settled It For $5,000.

LOWELL, Mass., Jan. 3.—The case of Mrs. Myra Beals, of Boston, against Dr. Thompson, for alienating her husband's affections is reported to have been settled for $5,000. The verdict awarded the plaintiff was $30,000.

COLORED CATHOLICS.

Cardinal Gibbons Delivers the Sermon at Their First Convention.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—A National convention of colored Catholics, composed of delegates from nearly all of the colored Catholic churches and societies throughout the country, began its sessions Tuesday morning in the St. Augustine (colored) Catholic church in this city. Every seat in the church was occupied, when, at 10:30 o'clock, Father Talton, of Quincy, Ill., the only colored Catholic priest in the United States, began the celebration of solemn high mass. Immediately in front, and beneath the pulpit, sat his Eminence Cardinal Gibbons, who delivered the sermon. He was clad in the scarlet robe of his office. At the conclusion of the sermon the cardinal welcomed the delegates.

This gathering, he said, will mark an era in the history of the colored people of the United States, for never before had colored Catholics met in convention. He trusted that the deliberations of the convention would be marked by modification and discretion. The actions of the convention would be watched by the country, not with the kindly eyes of friendship but with the sharp ones of criticism. He suggested that the convention discuss the religious education necessary to the life of the republic.

Temporary organization was effected by choosing as president William H. Smith. The president's greeting was responded to, among others, by Messrs. S. F. Handy, of Minnesota; A. F. Robinson, of Georgia; Joseph Wilkinson, of Missouri; and Nicholas Gailard, of Minnesota.

A committee on permanent organization was also appointed. At this moment Cardinal Gibbons entered the convention hall, and in response to a greeting counseled moderation and harmony in the proceedings of the convention.

"In essential things, unity," said the cardinal; "in non-essential things, liberty; in all things, charity."

Every one then had an opportunity to kiss the cardinal's ring.

The convention then adjourned for the day.

Murderously Assaulted His Son.

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—Isaac Overend, a hatter of Orange, N. J., is under arrest there for a murderous assault upon his son Isaac, aged twenty-one, Tuesday morning. The young man was found in the hallway of the house in which he and his father lived, in an unconscious condition, his head and face covered with cuts and bruises. His father was found asleep in bed with blood upon his person and clothing. He is believed to be suffering from religious insanity, and supposed that it was necessary to kill his son. There had been no family quarrels. Isaac is in a critical condition and may not recover.

Arm Chopped Off Inch by Inch.

SPRINGFIELD, O., Jan. 3.—One of the most horrible accidents ever recorded occurred three miles in the country Monday night. Ely Buckley, farmer, was operating a feed cutting machine. While putting in corn stalks his mitten was caught in the cogs and his arm drawn into the knives, which were set to cut every inch. The machine was operated by steam, and inch by inch the man's hand and arm to the elbow were chopped off before the machine could be stopped. He is in a critical condition.

Smallpox Raging.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 3.—Smallpox is on the increase in New Washington, Crawford county, four persons being down in the family. The secretary of the state board of health sent a couple of nurses to the place to-day.

New Years at Sioux Falls.

SIoux FALLS, Dak., Jan. 3.—New Year's Day has been celebrated by picnics in the parks, outside sports, etc. The temperature was 65 in the shade. The day was bright and cloudless.

A Daring Feat.

MONTREAL, Jan. 3.—A party consisting of Big John, Canadian Lazare Stacey, Joe Reed and Cross-the-River, all Indians, together with twenty-one newspaper reporters, descended Lachine rapids in a rowboat Tuesday. Big John performed the same feat on New Year's day eleven years ago. The boat used was thirty feet long by five feet wide.

Engine Buried in a Landslide.

SIoux CITY, Iowa, Jan. 3.—There was an extensive landslide at the Iowa approach of the new Missouri bridge early Tuesday morning, burying a freight engine nearly out of sight. The crew of the engine had a narrow escape. A large force is at work repairing the damage, but it will be several days before traffic is resumed.

Only the Captain Escaped Death.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—The department of state has received a telegram from the United States consul at St. Johns, N. F., stating that the American brig Atalaya, Brown master, from Rouen to Philadelphia, is a total loss at Renewa. The captain is the only survivor.

Knocked Out in Six Rounds.

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—Sam. Walker, of Brooklyn, and Jimmy Lyddy, of Elizabeth, N. J., fought for a purse of $250 Tuesday morning, on Long Island. Walker won the fight by knocking Lyddy out in the sixth round. Walker weighed 126 pounds, and Lyddy 132.

To Revise the State Constitution.

CONCORD, N. H., Jan. 3.—The convention of delegates called to revise the state constitution assembled this morning. G. W. M. Pitman, of Bartlett, who was a member of the conventions of 1850 and 1876, was elected temporary president. Delegate Baker, of Lebanon, was chosen temporary secretary. After the appointment of a committee on credentials a recess was taken till 2 p. m.

Harrison's New Year.

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 3.—The ladies of the Harrison household, assisted by Mrs. Edward McKee, Mrs. James Bradshaw, Miss Lina McKee and Miss Riley, received their numerous callers in an informal way Tuesday. Light refreshments were served between the hours of 2 and 6 p. m. Gen. and Mrs. Harrison received the guests without introductions. About two thousand called.

Forty Crafts Swept Away.

ST. JOHNS, N. B., Jan. 3.—During 1888 forty vessels, aggregating 17,348 tons, wholly or partly owned in St. Johns, were swept out of existence. The value is estimated at $550,000.

Opera House Burned.

TIFFIN, O., Jan. 3.—The opera house at Hicksville was burned Tuesday, entailing a loss of $20,000. The fire is said to be of incendiary origin.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE.

Quotations for the Money, Stock, Produce and Cattle Markets for January 2.

NEW YORK.—Money 6 per cent. Exchange steady; governments steady.

Currency sixes, 119 bid; four coupons, 127 bid; four-and-a-half, 108½ bid.

The stock market opened firm and advanced ¼ to ½ per cent. on buying by the commission houses during the first hour. Toward noon there was a raid made on Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe, and it was vigorously hammered. Its price declined 2 per cent., and this weakened the entire list, the early advance being entirely lost. The market at the present writing is dull but steady.
